

BOSTON'S FUTURE LEADERS

Boston's long-term success depends on the preparedness of the next generation of leaders. Our Boston's Future Leaders (BFL) provides emerging leaders (under the age of 40) a year-long professional development platform, where they gain exposure to established public, private, and nonprofit leadership practices, access to our region's leaders, experiential behind-the-scenes learning opportunities, and a cross-sector network. Participants graduate with the skills, experiences, and connections they need to lead Boston into the future.

SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATES ARE

- Under age 40 at time of application and employed at Chamber member company
- High performers, diverse, and promotable
- Committed to contributing to the long-term success of the region

PARTICIPANTS WILL GAIN

- Socially-conscious and civically-engaged leadership skills
- Effective management techniques
- Deeper, broader connections across the city with region's leaders and peers

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

- Three full days at Harvard Business School, learning from world-renowned faculty top in-demand skills, including corporate social responsibility, strategic planning, effective management, and authentic leadership
- A "behind the scenes" tour of one of Boston's most influential places of business and a leadership challenge hackathon to provide recommendations
- Opportunities to connect with peer emerging leaders from across industries and senior executives through exclusive programs and events

"Boston's Future Leaders is one of the most inspirational, motivational, and thoughtful programs I have had the gift of participating in. The Chamber is impressive and the people I have met are role models for our future."

Victoria Nicol, Rapid7

"Boston's Future Leaders is like nothing I have ever experienced. It's the perfect combination of learning, engagement, and motivation. You leave sessions wanting to go out and be a better manager."

Vanessa Fuccione, Lincoln Financial
